

My name is Sandra. I am a holder of dual Croatian-Syrian citizenship and I arrived from Syria 4 years ago. I am studying English language and cultural anthropology at the University of Zagreb. Since my arrival in Croatia, I have been actively involved in supporting asylum seekers and refugees through volunteering and interpreting.

I believe that a good information tool would allow migrants and refugees to be more independent and help them to get to know the system right away, which is crucial in order to start a new life in Croatia. I think I would benefit from such a tool in the future. I plan to start my own interpreting business and with all information in one place the whole process of becoming self-employed will be much easier and faster.
