

My name is Malika and I am a manager of the KEI project (Competences for Successful Integration), which is a part of the MigraNet – network in Bavaria. I come from Kyrgyzstan and have lived in Germany since 2014. I graduated at Augsburg University and got my master's degree in Peace and Conflict Studies. As a volunteer of the Law Clinic and Language Clinic Augsburg I consult people with migrant background in asylum and immigration law.

Using Danube Compass would be helpful for me in two ways. As a migrant, Danube Compass would give me “first aid” in structuring the information about work and life in Germany. As a consultant with the Law Clinic, I usually use the “first sources” like the Federal Office for Migration and Refugees. If Danube Compass gave personalized information for migrants in the local languages it would be indisputably a huge advantage.
