

A decorative background featuring a flock of birds in flight, scattered across the page. The birds are rendered in a light grey color and are shown in various stages of flight, some with wings spread wide and others in a more tucked position. They are distributed across the entire page, with a higher concentration in the upper and lower right areas.

My name is Ioanna and I am a community manager at the AMIGA Project and I also work in the migration department of the Caritas association. I studied social science and social educational policy in Greece and afterwards moved to Munich in 2012. I work with different people, cultures and languages and my aim is to help people during the integration phase.

Using Danube Compass is a huge opportunity for the newcomers to get general information about the structure and the social organization of the receiving countries. In my case, this platform will be useful to inform people who intend to migrate to Germany, with the goal to give them a general overview of its social organization. Due to the fact that in Germany there are many sources of information in different forms, perhaps Danube Compass is more useful for the group of newcomers than for consultants, because they are already familiar with the system.