

Special Edition: International Women's Day 2020

RADAR: Making Road Safety Women's Business

It is important to see behind the statistics, to be empathic, which is more often women's ability. This makes you also more devoted to your work, which is very important in the road safety sector.

Vanina Popova
Road Safety Expert
Bulgarian Association for Road Safety

www.interreg-danube.eu/RADAR

Project co-funded by European Union funds (ERDF, IPA, ENI).

Why did you choose to work in road safety sector?

I did a PhD, related to road safety. It was important for me to keep on working in this vast field and try to contribute to road safety in my country.

In your opinion, why is it important that more women take up road safety challenges in the near future?

It is important to see behind the statistics, to be empathic, which is more often women's ability. This makes you also more devoted to your work, which is very important in the road safety sector.

What is your impact as a woman in projects such as RADAR?

To get more people involved in the road safety cause; It is very important to exchange best practices and policies in this field in order to ensure safe travelling all over Europe, no matter the economic status of the country.