

First DF Webinar Floodplain under pressure: A natural system to preserve and restore

Statement on participants privacy

Webinar has been organized as a panel discussion. To ensure the safety of participants, and enable them to speak freely, any recording of the meeting was done. The participants credentials were not collected, nor we asked for consent to share them.

The meeting has been successful, increased the engagement with the Danube Floodplain project and developed tools, and risen the awareness on the floodplains in the region. Fruitful discussion brought interesting bottom-up approaches and initiatives for successful floodplain restorations, and lively exchange between participants and panellists.

The webinar was reported more in detail shortly after, and the information are attached in separate file.
