

Second DF Webinar Floodrisk management and Nature Based Solutions

Statement on participants privacy

Webinar has been organized as a panel discussion. To ensure the safety of participants, and enable them to speak freely, any recording of the meeting was done. The participants credentials were not collected, nor we asked for consent to share them.

The webinar has brought fruitful discussion on benefits of nature base solutions (NBS) for climate change mitigation and adaptation to extremes such as floods. Interaction between panelists and participants rose the questions on upscaling and replicating the success of NBS, and other challenges related to their application. Panellist have suggested the possible way forward for wider application of NBS for multiple-purposes.

The webinar was reported more in detail shortly after, and the information are attached in separate file.
